The Earlinton Bee is the only Republican paper in the Second Congressional district. It is a creditable newspaper, though it may be a fraction lonesome.
It was Mark Twain who said: "Be good and you will be lonesome."

The Guthrie Courier burned out early Sunday morning. Loss about $2,500, partly insured. The Courier will resume publication soon.

Mr. W. T. Fowler will resign as chairman of Christian County Republican Committee. He is about to enter a law partnership with Hon. J. W. Breathitt at Hopkinsville.

We have the pleasure today to publish in full resolutions of respect and esteem passed by the Livingston county attorneys and court officials upon Judge C. J. Pratt's retirement from office.

The Louisville Times announces that the friends of Hon. John Young Brown claim that that gentleman has the Louisville delegation safe for him and that he will win the nomination for Governor in the next Democratic State convention.

A special invitation is extended to the people of Kentucky at large by the commission in charge of the arrangements for the christening of the new battleship Kentucky in January. The commissioners have arranged reduced railroad rates and offer their best efforts for the comfort and pleasure of Kentuckians at the christening.

THE BEE gives Christmas greetings to its many readers with the best wishes of this happy season. We offer a 6-page paper today, brim full of news, general and local, choice illustrated Christmas matter and timely selections and contributions. There are few weekly papers anywhere outside of the large cities that give their readers as much reading matter as THE BEE. With the increased encouragement and support of our subscribers and patrons we shall do even better. We wish you a merry Christmas and a prosperous New Year.

THE EMPLOYEES of another New England cotton mill will have their wages reduced January 1. Listen for the chorus of calamities crying "no prosperity." The competition of the new Southern cotton mills is being felt and this is conceded by well informed people to be the cause that brings about the reduction to New England cotton operatives. But there are none so blind but those who will not see, and the calamity chorus is upon us. We quoted last week from the Textile World, of Boston, which recognizes the effect of Southern competition on the coarser grades of cotton goods and which asserts that one of two things must be done in order to meet that competition: "Either the hours of labor in Massachusetts will have to be extended, or the wages of operatives will have to be reduced."

Is Earlinton a "Hard Place?"
From a leading Indiana daily paper we clip the following allusion to our little city:

Secretary Kennedy's meeting at Central Labor union was largely organized. He spoke of the necessity of organization and pointed out where to belong to the union was an advantage. He said with the exception of Vanderburg, Pike and Warrick counties, the miners of the state were in the union. In these counties these counties there are about 700 miners. Only a small per cent of this number is in the organization.

The speaker said it was the intention of the union to thoroughly organize this part of the State. This being done the work will be carried to Kentucky. The points that will be visited are Central City, Taylorville, McHenry, Island Station, Powderly, Mud River and Baskett Station. After these points have been organized it is hoped to bring the Earlinton men into the union. Earlinton, Ky., is the hardest place the union miners have ever attempted to organize.

Now note the following from the Philadelphia Record:

A non union workman who recently found employment in the Scottsboro rolling mill, which has been the scene of a bitter strike, was refused admittance to the mill by the morning service by the pastor, Rev. Mr. Stratton. Strikers who are church members charged the applicant with drunkenness, and although the charge was not sustained, he and his wife were refused baptism. The congregation is composed largely of strikers, although some mill officials are members.

Strikers' wives belonging to the Aid Society are indignant because a meeting of the society is called at non-union boarding house.

The following from the Coal Trade Journal:
Two hundred miners at the Crawford Coal Company's mines at Brazil, Ind., went out on the 7th because they discovered one non-union man at work and four others who had not paid their dues.

Although Earlinton is a small place of some 2,500 inhabitants, the various religious denominations are found within its confines; and in the churches of these different branches of Christians, our people, the "stranger within our gates" and even the wayfarer man can worship God according to the dictates of conscience and none dare to molest or make afraid. Last summer when the organizers came here to sow seeds of discord and inaugurate want and suffering among a contented and prosperous people they were kindly and cordially invited to church and introduced to each of the worshippers there assembled, who in that fellowship which distinguishes the true followers of the Master invited those whose mission was not of peace and whose purpose was to violate the law, to sit in the front and assist in the service of God. Now if "union miners" wish to educate our people up to that elevated point where they will cast obstacles in the pathway of those who are striving to travel in the "straight and narrow road," then Earlinton will forever remain a "hard place," for her broad-minded citizens are too liberal in their views to for one moment entertain such narrow, contracted sentiments.

Holiday Reflections.

Written for THE BEE.
What thought more appropriate for the Holidays, than the thought of one's personal status with regard to time and eternity. We do not bring ourselves to this reckoning often enough. The trials and turmoils of life too frequently occupy the mind to the exclusion of such thoughts.
On the great ocean of time one cannot too often bring his frail bark to a standstill and take a reckoning. Were it often done, the shipwreck marking the line of travel would be fewer, the hidden rocks better located and more easily avoided, and the number of successful voyagers greatly increased. And as no mariner can successfully navigate the ocean without frequent reckonings, neither can the mariner on the great ocean of life hope for success without possessing an accurate knowledge of his true position.
The beacon lights along the coast may tide the mariner provided he understands their true position and his relation thereto, by reminding him of breakers, of dangerous passages and of quicksands and shoals. There are also great moral beacon lights along the shores of time, and he who understands his true position and relation thereto, may guide his bark to a safe and happy mooring. But when out in mid ocean, the mariner may know his true position only by taking a reckoning with the aid of chart and compass and the friendly stars. So he who is aloft upon the broad ocean of time and would safely navigate its treacherous seas, must trust to the great chart of Truth and the compass of Faith, looking ever to that bright and constant Star whose rising brought health and salvation to mankind.

Mr. Fowler Will Resign the Chairmanship to Enter Law Partnership With Judge Breathitt.

HOPKINSVILLE, KY., Dec. 20. The Republican County Executive Committee of Christian county is hereby called to meet at the Court House in Hopkinsville, on the 3d day of January, 1898, at which time and place I will tender to said committee my resignation as chairman. The committee, in addition to the election of a chairman, will also consider some other important matters relative to the organization of the party, etc.
Given under my hand this December 20th, 1897.

WILLIAM T. FOWLER,
Chm'n Rep. Ex. Com.
Mr. Fowler said to THE BEE the other day:

"My resignation as chairman of the Republican Committee is occasioned by my having formed a partnership in the practice of law with Judge James Breathitt, retiring Circuit Judge, and my business will be such that it would be impossible for me to serve the committee as chairman."

MISS HERBERT SUICIDES.

Daughter of Ex-Secretary Herbert Leaps From a Window in Their Washington Home.

Washington, Dec. 21.—Miss Lelia Herbert, daughter of former Secretary of the Navy Herbert, of Alabama, committed suicide in this city this morning by throwing herself from the third story window of her home on New Hampshire avenue, in the most fashionable part of the city, just off Dupont Circle. The sudden death and tragic features surrounding it were a great shock to the great circle of friends she had made in the course of her life in Washington as the daughter of a popular representative in Congress from the South, and later as one of the cabinet circle of ladies when she presided over her father's household during the four years he was Secretary of the Navy under the last Cleveland Administration.

Her death is indirectly traceable to an accident while horse back riding last September in Virginia. She was thrown violently to the ground and sustained severe injuries to her back.

Since that time she has been in poor health and has suffered from melancholia. At the time of her death she was keeping her room and was under the constant care of two nurses. The nurse in charge discovered blood on the bed clothing and found that Miss Herbert had severed the artery of her wrist with a pair of scissors. The nurse ran to the door to give the alarm and Miss Herbert sprang from her bed and leaped headfirst from the window. Her skull was fractured and she died in about an hour.

Lampton's Defl.

(Louisville Post.)

To the Poetry Editor of the Evening Post, to Jesse Phillips, of Earlinton, Ky., and to all others who directly or indirectly are engaged in the public prints in seeking by poetic effusions and other disreputable methods to bring me into the disesteem of that noble benefactor of the Fourth Estate, Col. C. P. Atmore, G. P. A., of the L. & N. R.—Greeting:
Go to, you slingers of the mud Of poetry that taints The fairest pictures that the Muse In freshest fancy paints.
Go to, go to, you penguiners. Who do not know a line About the gifts the gods bestow. Nor what of them is mine.
Go to, go to, you envious souls, Who seem to be combined Against me, yet who do not know The railway ties that bind.
Go to, go to, you fatuous ones, Who are too blind to see How vastly more than all of you, Sweet Ellen N. loves me.

NEW L. & N. SUPERINTENDENT.

B. F. Dixon will Retire and W. S. Martin Takes His Place on This Division.

A Birmingham special says a number of important official changes will be made on the L. & N. January 1. Among these: W. S. Martin, Superintendent of the main line division and branches with headquarters at Louisville, will be transferred to Evansville, Ind., where he will become Superintendent of the Evansville and Henderson division, succeeding B. F. Dixon, who it is understood will retire.

Mr. Dixon's health has for some time past been very poor but his many friends had hoped that he would regain his old strength. This hope has not been realized and deep regret is felt in consequence.

The Secret of Longevity.

New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Sir James Sawyer, a well-known physician of Birmingham, England, has been confiding to an audience in that town the secret of longevity. Keep the following nineteen commandments and Sir James sees no reason why you should not live to be 100:

- 1—Eight hours' sleep.
- 2—Sleep on your right side.
- 3—Keep your bedroom window open all night.
- 4—Have a mat to your bedroom door.
- 5—Do not have your bedstead against the wall.
- 6—No cold tub in the morning, but a bath at the temperature of the body.
- 7—Exercise before breakfast.
- 8—Eat little meat and see that it is well cooked.
- 9—(For adults) drink no milk.
- 10—Eat plenty of fat, to feed the cells which destroy disease germs.
- 11—Avoid intoxicants which destroy those cells.
- 12—Daily exercise in open air.
- 13—Allow no pet animals in your living rooms. They are apt to carry about diseased germs.
- 14—Live in the country if you can.
- 15—Watch the three Ds—drink-water, damp and drains.
- 16—Have change of occupation.
- 17—Take frequent and short holidays.
- 18—Limit your ambition; and
- 19—Keep your temper.

Catarrh, like scrofula, is a disease of the blood and may be cured by purifying the blood with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

OTHER NEWS FROM THE COUNTY SEAT.

BAINBRIDGE JOTTINGS

To the Editor of THE BEE:—
DEAR SIR:—I have been a correspondent of the Hopkinsville Banner for the last three years, and I thought if you wanted some items, I would pencil you a few.

Our little town is on a boom. We have two dry goods stores, three blacksmith shops and two postmasters, and some of our energetic farmers as ever inhabited a vicinity.

Rev. B. C. Sheffer, the preacher in charge of the Wallonia circuit, filled his regular appointment at Cave Spring church last Saturday and Sunday. Bro. Sheffer is a good preacher and a forcible speaker.

Prayer-meeting convened at Bro. J. L. P. Pooles last Sunday night, and was conducted by Bro. B. C. Sheffer. The Christian part of the congregation were greatly revived by the testimonies.

While Mr. Joseph Francis was bawling logs one day last week, his head horse slipped down and his leg was caught under him, and it was thirty minutes before Mr. Francis could extricate himself. We are glad to note that he is convalescing.

The Mitchell school will close Friday, December 24, 1897, with exercises conducted by T. B. Walker. The school has been a decided success. There are six pupils who have not been absent a single day during the session.

May luck and prosperity crown THE BEE and the G. O. P. with success is the wish of the writer. SALAMAGUNDI.

POOLE.

The organ man has left a few of his organs in town so we can have music.

Mr. Thomas S. Coleman, of Brandenburg, Ky., is spending the winter with his daughter, Mrs. Dr. Thornberry. No one about town can feel lonesome while he stays with us, for he is one of the best talkers we have. We hope he may forget to go home next spring, and stay longer with us.

William Coughler, of Earlinton, and E. O. Lane, of Shiloh, were with us last Saturday mixing with relatives and friends.

R. K. Meagles, a well known old man of this place, died on the 18th inst. He leaves a wife and several children to mourn his death.

Charlie, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Carmack Hayes, has a case of cerebral meningitis, but is doing well at this writing.

We understand that W. H. Parker has purchased the farm of W. Y. Slaton, of your county, and will move there a year from now. While we regret to give Billie and his family up, we can highly recommend them to the people of Hopkins.

We understand that several new families will move in our town the first of the year and several of our townspeople will change residences. Mr. James R. Floyd has already vacated the Tate residence and removed to the Sugg residence, while Mr. F. T. Tate is occupying his own house.

Mr. J. C. Allen is now moving to his new home on Mill street, and several others are looking for a house. We also understand from the management of the High School that several new pupils are expected to attend school here after the Holidays.

General Debility and Loss of Flesh

Scott's Emulsion has been the standard remedy for nearly a quarter of a century. Physicians readily admit that they cannot get results from it that they cannot get from any other flesh-forming food.

There are many other preparations on the market that pretend to do what does, but they fail to perform it. The pure Norwegian Cod-liver Oil made into a delicious cream, skillfully blended with the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, which are such valuable tonics, makes this preparation an ideal one and checks the wasting tendency, and the patient almost immediately commences to put on flesh and gain a strength which surprises them.

Be sure you get SCOTT'S Emulsion. See that the man and fish are on the wrapper.

We have had a wonderful Cloak Sale. So much larger than we expected that we had to make a second purchase. The factory was rushed. Our goods were delayed, so now we find ourselves with a big stock right at the close of the season. We do not know but one way to unload them, let the bottom to the prices fall out, so we have knocked the props and the prices have tumbled. No such values were ever offered in Cloaks.

OUR Christmas list FOR THE LITTLE BOYS WITH EACH Knee Pant Suit WORTH $4.00.

DEAR SANTA CLAUS:—If you want to make me happy, bring me a new suit of clothes. When I went with papa down to Madisonville I spent the whole day looking through all those big fine stores at the boy's suits, and that great big store in front of the Courthouse, where Walter Dulin and Ed McLeod work, simply had more clothes and finer clothes and cheaper clothes than all the rest put together. I want you to get my suit there, and if you get a suit worth $4.00, they will throw in free a fine watch. Answer through "THE BEE."

WILLIE GOODCHILD.

DEAR WILLIE GOODCHILD:—In answer to your nice letter I want to say that you are a bright little boy to know so well where to find the best suits. Yes, you are right, I have looked the country over, and Dulin, McLeod & Co. lead them all. I buy all my suits there, so if you are a good boy and get a new suit you may know it came from Dulin's. Yours, for a merry Xmas, SANTA CLAUS.
